Navy To Seek
Amelia Again

AMELIA EARHART

SAN DIEGO, Jan. 11—Navy flyers from four cruisers en route to Australia may cover again the search for missing aviator Amelia Earhart and her navigator, Fred Noonan, vanished on a round-the-world flight.

The cruisers sailed to represent the United States at Australia's snap-up of the Commonwealth of Australia, now that it has been formed.

Other officers discussed plans for a flight over the Polynesian group of islands, but gave no reason for the reconnaissance.

COURT RULING

Chief Counsel Bigger Says
He Is At Disadvantage
In Case

OTTAWA, Jan. 11—O. M. Biggar, chief counsel for Alberta, opened the argument on the validity of three Alberta bills before the supreme court of Canada, all with the objection to statements in the bills to statements in the court order making the government's facts.

He asked the court to rule whether the bills in the legislative session in enacting the bills was relevant to the issue of their validity. He said that the court's representatives could not be bound by evidence of intention contained in the documents.

They would have to bring to the attention of the court other material bearing on the bills.

The three bills in issue relate to the taxation of banks, regulation of credit and insurance. The court is asked to say whether they are within the power of the Alberta legislature.

QUEBEC'S MINIMUM

Judge Roy, chairman of the provincial Fair Wage Board, says regarding Quebec's new minimum wage order:

"The authors of the order, moved by complaints from all parts of the province, have wished to remedy the abuses from which a large majority of workers of Quebec suffer, and which, while there is no legislation exists—especially those in minor positions without influence or backing and who therefore receive very little wages. There are at this moment thousands of workers in Quebec, even in large enterprises, who receive $3, $4 or $5 per day for highly skilled work or not. The orders affect all categories all over the province; that is its essential feature."

In other provinces the new order has aroused interest mainly because of the minimum rates and how they compare with the prevailing rates in nearly fourteen hours a day for fifty cents, almost any kind of a minimum seems a blessing. And if the chairman's explanation is to be taken literally, and the new wage order to extend to all of Quebec, Quebec will start to build its minimum schedule in the right place and the right way—from the bottom up. Elsewhere the common practice is to insert a clause in minimum wage laws saying they do not apply to farm labor and domestic servants—that is to those who commonly get small pay and need a boat if anybody does.

GOOD, BUT TOO SLOW

Up to the end of December the federal adjustment board, under the Farmer's Creditors' Adjustment Act in Alberta, had dealt with 2407 farm debts, granting reductions in principal totaling $515,152 and of interest amounting to $54,108.

The reductions averaged 37.3 per cent of the debts adjusted. How necessary re-distribution was, is shown by the fact that the average original debt of farmers whose cases were dealt with was $9,082. The reductions averaged $3,395.

This progress report at once emphasizes the gravity of the debt situation in the west. It is clear that the debt can be easily wiped out soon through the operations of one adjustment board, however it may apply itself to the task.

A dozen boards might get through with the job in a year, though it is to be doubted, considering the size of the country, the thousands of cases to be investigated, and the wide difference of circumstances involved.

The method is right but the machinery is slow. It is clear that the debt can be easily wiped out soon through the operations of one adjustment board, however it may apply itself to the task.

Two teams were used to bring in Monday's stage and one pair of boos. There was sleighing all the way from Calgary but wheeling was also done.

Farmers report water very low in their wells. It is a matter demanding early attention lest what is now a mere inconvenience develop through neglect into a serious pressing problem.

WHY PRETEND?

Britain and France, it is given out with an appearance of official consent, will urge that the present clauses, struck out of the original draft of the League of Nations' charter, will be little surprise if they do so, and in the bad circumstances little regret if the clauses are struck out. It has been demonstrated that "sanctions" can not be enforced. That is the matter for regret—but the useless provisions may be deleted from the covenant.

"Sanctions" were pronounced against Italy when it assailed Abyssinia. Both these countries were member states of the League. One reason for this was surely that it would not enforce sanctions: for the apparent reason that it was afraid to do so. Non-member nations were under no obligation to enforce them. The apparent problem was that the supplies came only a fiction. Italy was able to get all the supplies it wanted. "Sanctions" did not stop the war; nor inconvenience the aggressor in any serious way.

The result was seething resentment in Italy against these countries, expressed and provoked by "balcony speeches." In Italy and in Italy only, after helping it to get all the supplies it wanted in every conceivable way. The net outcome of the sanctions episode was to sharpen the threat of a large scale war in Europe, speed up armament-building all over that continent, and renew the new triple alliance of Italy, Germany and Japan for international lawlessness.

Dropping the "sanctions" clauses would mark the complete abandonment of hope that the League would be able to do its work.

The idea of President Wilson and Mr. Lloyd George. It hasn't worked. The terrible fact is the nations have refused to stand together for collective security, in any way, large enough to be effective. With Germany, Italy, Japan and the United States out of the League it is incapable of disciplinary action. The pretence may as well be dropped.

With an estimated "life" of at least 30 years, given the new Capital Hill Bridge to be built immediately at 142 street, thoughtful people will wonder what this fair city will be like when replacement is again necessary. We should, of course, "vision" what we would like it to be, and then go ahead and help create it.

Tenders having been called for the new hanger, badly-needed facilities will shortly be available at the Edmonton Air Port.

As appears certain, the same advance in air service will be made in the city as has been made in the last few years. It will not be long before bargees will be called upon to "OK" still further development at the port.

When three local nurses leave in a few weeks to take up duties in South Africa, they will carry with them the best wishes of all citizens. It says much for the efficiency of the Edmonton Nursing Service that the brilliant work of these young women is to be rewarded.

South Africa, an exchange nurse, is directly responsible for a request that 20 more Canadian nurses be sent to that country.

Saskatchewan's Brief

By F. W. VARLEY, M.A., Barrister, Kincaid, Saskatchewan.

Those of us who have followed closely Saskatchewan's presentation before the Royal Commission must recognize in its brief a masterly collaboration of facts and figures concerning the financial history of the province. It will throw out albumin which should be kept in the body and will keep in water and various waste materials, which should be thrown out. It will be retained which may produce dropsy or edema. It will appear as a slight swelling of the ankles or the area under the eyes. At the start, this puffiness may come and go, but later it may remain permanently. The skin over the affected area will be pale, dry and wrinkled, and if pressed with the finger will remain indented. Dropsy may, however, not appear at all in Bright's disease.

Some of the general symptoms which may be noted are: indigestion, dizziness, headache, rapid beating of the heart, and a complete or incomplete loss of the ability to see well. The patient may undergo an intense itching of the skin.

One of the changes found when the liquid waste from the kidneys of a patient with nephritis is tested in the laboratory is the presence of albumin in excess of normal in even minute amounts. This means that the kidney is no longer doing properly its work of filtering and is allowing the albumin to flow through it when it should be holding it back. However, as albumin may be found in many other conditions, its mere presence does not prove that nephritis is the cause.

Suppose you have nephritis and your doctor has had you submit a sample of a urinalysis test. You receive the report and probably sit down in a quiet place and try to remember the explanation which the doctor gave you. You may notice that the report mentions albumin and that this has been checked in red ink. It was checked in this way to tell your physician that here is something important about your case.

You may notice that casts were found, and again the red ink is used. The presence of casts is likewise important because they indicate some irritation, congestion, or inflammation of the kidneys. In large amounts, hyaline casts are a strong suggestion of nephritis.

Urea may be found in too small an amount which means the kidney is not working efficiently in throwing this substance out of the body. The same may be true of uric acid. The specific gravity of the urine is also important.

Urea is a strong, neutral, organic compound.

Urea may be found in too large an amount which means the kidney is not working efficiently in throwing this substance out of the body. The same may be true of uric acid. The specific gravity of the urine is also important.

Ottawa Faced With Reconstruction Year Plans

TRADE RETURN IS DEMANDED IN PROVINCES

Production, Consumption, Employment To Engage Attention

By THOMAS WAYLING

Exclusive to Edmonton Bulletin
OTTAWA, Jan. 11.—When parliament resumes on Jan. 15, the crown, the commons and the senate will be faced with new plans for the economy. An incident demand has been rising in the provinces and Ottawa for legislation to give the provinces to take advantage of Canada's unique position in production and war materials. The situation which has set in down below the border and which, like all other situations, has its reflection in Canada.

The resumption of production and consumption will be the first question of employment and living costs will engage the attention of parliament. The financial situation, particularly in respect to the burden of taxation and the cutting of expenditures, will come up for B.N.A. ACT MUST WAIT

It is extremely unlikely that the B.N.A. committee will have time to review the bill which will be introduced in the house at the coming session of parliament, but there will be debates on some of the parts of the bill during the session. The rejuvenation of the British North America Act will have to wait for the session of parliament when all the briefs and the conclusions of the commissions have been submitted and agreed to.

The session will receive the second speech from the throne as from King George VI. Parliament will be opened by the Queen from Edward VIII. There will be references to the coronation and the new year. This is the first session since his coronation.

There will be references to the Imperial conference which followed the coronation, and to the defence issues. The B.N.A. committee will be a full dress debate, but there will be with such information as may be received from the Imperial conference. The trade question will also be a feature of the speech, with the prime minister and the foreign minister, and the finance minister of the trade of the need for further expansion of overseas commerce.

EMPLOYMENT TOPIC

There will be references to what the government has accomplished with respect to employment and most of the topics will be referred to the commission which is now bringing in a report to a close.

Imports will be referred to in the natural industries of agriculture, mining, forestry and fishing, will be referred to in respect of efforts made to obtain wider markets for their disposition. The services of the government will be referred to, especially the employment of young children will be given a place in the co-operative given them a place in this respect.

Improved conditions in the drought areas of the west will be mentioned to parliament with information to the effect that the year will be a further improvement and the seven lead years which have struck the west.

TRADE ACT TO BE PASSED

The transportation problems of the Dominion will loom large and parliament will be called upon to take action on the subject. The difficulties show little signs of abating and as parliament progresses there will be a further demand for definite action to deal with the growing taxation due to railway deficits.

The picture of air transport will be brighter, with indications that the trans-Canada air service will be ready by July with possible link-up with a trans-Canada train service by Imperial Airways.

Lated in the session there will be a debate on the public ownership of the railways. The question of public ownership should be confined to the main line from coast to coast and the question of public service is to reach out and seize the feeder services which have been passed over and developed by the private companies.

RADIO PROGRESS

Progress with radio broadcasting under the Canadian Broadcast Commission will be reported, and the commission will spur the heavy fire which fell on the old radio commission and wiped it out. The commission of the Canadian networks the major commercial programs of the national network will be discussed.

There will be no vacances when the Canadian Broadcast Commission is in session. The stations in Victoria and London have brought in two new members, while the stations in St. John's will be given a complete list of names when the commission meets.

St. John's will be given a complete list of names when the commission meets.

JAPAN MAPS WAR COURSE IN PARLEYS

Formal Declaration of Six-Month-Old Campaign May be Made

TOKYO, Jan. 11.—Japan's highest military and government officials believe Hirohito will for the first such conference, since 1914 to map the future course of undeclared war against China.

The home minister, Admiral Nobumatsu Saito, was reported by Tokyo newspaper to be arriving in the capital to attend tomorrow's meeting in the Emperor's name.

Press reports had the home minister also insisted on withdrawal of recent statements of the government against which Japan has waged warfare for virtually six months.

Domestic Ambassador N. H. Gray said Japan expected to be recalled from China.

The only previous conference between the two countries held in Tokyo at the time of the Japanese-Chinese war, in 1904 during the Russo-Japanese war, was a secret conference decided to declare war on Germany.

The chief of the Japanese army and navy general staffs, the premier and the foreign, army, war and finance ministers were called to attend.

Declaration Might Force Arms Ban

WASHINGTON, Jan. 11.—A formal declaration of war by Japan on China may force the Roosevelt administration to invoke the neutrality laws to prevent the United States from intervening.

Diplomatic authorities said last night that, if Japan declared war formally, the United States would be forced to declare war on Germany.

In an extended exchange of views it was agreed that the two countries would not declare war on each other.

To effect this measure of cooperation a standing committee was appointed.

It was also charged that the enlarged district was being forced to support a school without a vote of the taxpayers.

In reply, it was stated that forming a larger school would mean lower taxation, as would the government constantly need.

By OLIVE ROBERTS
BARTON

There is another matter that bothers me sometimes. Not long ago I called at a house where the wife was a widow. She was a widow of the "doghouse," in soldier patches, because she minded the world outside.

This lady did not hesitate to say, "Oh, your father drives me wild with his stories of the old days. Or, 'John has no sense at all. I just tell the children not to pay any attention to him.'

Fathers, too, often think it is a good joke to disparage their wives before their children. I wonder if this is a regular jest, or whether the stories are brought out and rattled out only by my mother.

These are good stories, however, too, and I often mention them. I have mentioned the disappointment in the part of their home and the disappointment in the part of the children. The children would be instantly ready. It is just as quick, and the same kind of thing of their offspring, or maybe a bid for a protest from me. In any case, it is most discouraging to listen to the stories.

"ALWAYS REJUVENATING"
Most children grow sixty in department, both at home and abroad, and in the case of the old and eighty, maybe nineties. Isn't this rather wonderful, taking into consideration the spontaneousness of childhood, its lack of experience and ignorance of values? I think that the old would rate as high, with our little subtleties and artificialities removed.

We mothers have a great responsibility in keeping self-respect blossoming. Our children want to know that we think about them.

SAULT STE. MARIE, Ont., Jan. 11.—A coroner's jury decided last night that Helen Grier, killed by a person unknown,

with strong suspicion of Vernon Spencer. The Wixom, Mich.,
apostle was arrested immedi-

FOUND IN LODGE

The 28-year-old Pontiac, Mich., stenographer was found shot to death in an isolated hunting lodge 28 miles west of Sault Ste. Marie. With her, she had received the cottage during a hunting trip, one of the several the couple had made to this district in the past five years.

Spencer, 40, a former professional baseball player who once played with Toronto Maple Leafs of the International League, was in custody as a material witness. A medical witness said the day he made his way through the woods he was unable to notify authorities of the tragedy.

WARRANT SWORN

Eight witnesses testified at the inquest that Spencer, 40, was not called to the stand. Crown authorities said a few minutes before the jury returned to the courtroom that a murder warrant had been sworn out for Spencer. Preliminary hearing will take place at the first of next week.
